This team is not warranted. We are limiting the number of people on the official question and answer team (actually speaking to the sites and gathering cost and other information) to four (4). For all those that find possible sites, please let the B&B of either BTY or BMMT know and we will add you to the FaceBook page so that you can put the possible location information on the page for the team to explore. Those not on FaceBook – send the site information to the B&B or Seneschal of your group and that individual will upload for you.
